Recommendation

PCAFPD scholars are chosen on the basis of their financial need, academic performance, and commitment to community service and leadership. As the applicant's reference, please describe the applicant's demonstrated leadership skills, accomplishments, and impacts on your community and any other relevant information you feel the committee should know about the applicant.

I first met Paula last school year during her freshman year here in Ateneo de Manila University-Higher Education. I had the impression that she was a responsible student, academically-inclined, family oriented.

Consistent to my impression about Paula, she has proven herself to be academically responsible given that she maintained being in the First Honors' list last school year. During my interview with her, I reckon that she will not allow herself to fail in any of her subjects either, because she needs to keep her scholarship as her way of alleviating her parents' financial burdens.

As a member of the Ateneo community, Paula is actively involved in the student organizations that she belongs to, namely Ateneo Psyche, Pre-Medical Society of Ateneo, and Health Science Society. It is important to note that her involvement in these student-led organizations align with her advocacies such as to give support to future scholars, and healthcare especially to those who do not have easy access to it.

In regard to Paula's leadership skills, I know that she served as class president in junior high school. Her involvement in the student organizations were to advocate for opportunities and to foster appreciation for life sciences. Furthermore, she is currently handling research projects for Health Science Society.

As mentioned earlier, Paula wishes to alleviate her parents' financial burdens through scholarship applications. Worth noting is her desire to give back to society by rendering her services to the underprivileged, and by supporting scholars when she becomes financially able.

May this recommendation letter satisfy Paula's application for scholarship from your good office. Should you need clarifications, please do not hesitate to contact me.
