Recommendation

As a former teacher of Aslamiah, I was fortunate enough to see her outstanding leadership qualities not only in the class but outside. She had a natural flair for leading as she was always chosen to lead a project in class or even any activity in school. Aslamiah always inspired her peer students to work together for collective progress and whose concern for community service is profound. Her approach at solving problems faced within or outside school has made her a role model among peers.

One of the outstanding achievements she had was organizing a school campaign on environmental sustainability awareness, which culminated into engaging with the neighborhood community. Aslamiah also coordinated organizing students in volunteering efforts to local outreach programs, which had a difference for disadvantaged communities. Her dedication, empathy, and keen sense of social responsibility make her an outstanding individual, and I have confidence in her ability to make a bigger difference in any leadership position or endeavor.
