Dear Members of the PCAFPD Scholarship Committee,

I am writing this letter to offer my wholehearted recommendation for Mr. Kervy Tangkay as a candidate for the PCAFPD Scholarship. As the President of the PCAFPD Diocesan Youth Apostolate (DYA) in our community, I have had the privilege of working closely with Kervy and personally witnessing his unwavering dedication to service, leadership, and academic excellence.

Kervy is a highly active and dependable member of our youth organization. Serving as the Secretary of the DYA, he has consistently shown strong organizational skills and initiative. He takes an active role in planning, documenting, and implementing various youth programs and events in our community, he also participates in church activities such as youth leadership trainings, worship events, and spiritual development programs. His involvement goes far beyond attendance; he is a true leader who motivates others and ensures that every activity runs smoothly.

Beyond our organization, Kervy has also join in our barangay activities through his volunteer work with the Sangguniang Kabataan (SK). By participating in barangay clean-up drives, awareness programs on mental health, or contributing to the spirit of bayanihan, Kervy is ready to offer his time and energy. His commitment to serving others reflects a deep love for our community and a genuine desire to make a positive difference.

What sets Kervy apart is his ability to lead with humility and integrity. He listens, collaborates, and always puts the needs of the group before his own. Under his leadership support as Secretary, our youth organization has become more organized, inclusive, and proactive in engaging the community.

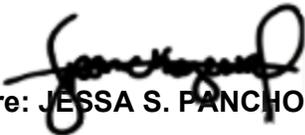

Academically, Kervy also excels. Despite his many responsibilities, he continues to perform exceptionally well in school, demonstrating a strong work ethic and a deep commitment to his personal growth. His ability to balance academics with community service is truly commendable and speaks volumes about his character.

In closing, I believe that Kervy is an ideal candidate for the PCAFPD Scholarship. His financial need, combined with his proven academic capability and his outstanding commitment to community service and leadership, align perfectly with the values of this program. I have no doubt that he will continue to serve as an inspiration to his peers and a future leader who will contribute meaningfully to society.

Thank you for considering his application.

JESSA S. PANCHO
