Recommendation

To Whom It May Concern,

As a Sangguniang Kabataan Councilor, I have had the privilege of working with many young people in our community, but I can confidently say that Mark Ivan Comia stands out as one of the most committed and reliable. Whenever I need youth representatives to attend important seminars or symposiums—such as those on HIV awareness, health, family planning, and environmental awareness—Mark Ivan is always the first person I call. Not only does he readily volunteer, but he also takes the initiative to coordinate with other young people so that more participants can be involved.

His dedication to community service is remarkable. He does not treat these activities as simple obligations; he approaches them as opportunities to learn, to lead, and to share knowledge with others. His ability to mobilize fellow youth and his consistent presence in various community programs reflect both his leadership potential and his genuine concern for others.

I firmly believe that Mark Ivan's passion for service, combined with his sense of responsibility, makes him highly suitable for the PCAFPD scholarship. Beyond his leadership qualities, this scholarship's financial assistance would greatly help him continue his studies without the heavy burden of financial constraints. With this support, I am certain that Mark Ivan will not only excel academically but also continue his mission of helping others—especially the youth and the wider community. He has already proven himself as a youth leader in our barangay, and I am confident that, given this opportunity, he will use his education and skills to create meaningful change and help uplift the lives of many Filipino people.
