Recommendation

It is with genuine pride and joy that I write this recommendation for Princess O. Molinyawe, my former Grade 12 advisory student. During the time I spent guiding her, I came to know Princess not only as an excellent student but also as a young woman of strong character, humility, and purpose. She has consistently been an honor student, but what makes her truly remarkable is her dedication to using her talents and knowledge in service of others.

Princess carries with her a natural kindness and positivity that radiates to her classmates and teachers alike. I have never once had to worry about her conduct—she has no record of misbehavior, and instead, she has been a model of respect and empathy. She is the kind of student who uplifts those around her, making sure everyone feels included and valued. Her optimism and maturity set her apart, and I believe this is why she has earned the trust and admiration of both her peers and her teachers.

What I admire most about Princess is her heart for leadership and service. She initiated a reading program for our junior high school students, a project she designed to help struggling readers develop confidence and improve their skills. This was not a requirement from school, nor was it something she did for recognition. Rather, it was born out of her genuine compassion and her desire to make learning accessible to others. Seeing her guide and encouraging younger students was truly inspiring—she was not only teaching them how to read but also showing them what it means to be cared for and believed in. That program alone speaks volumes about the kind of leader Princess who is selfless, innovative, and deeply committed to her community.

I wholeheartedly believe that Princess deserves to be part of the PCAFPD Scholarship Program. She has academic excellence, integrity, and most importantly, compassion to make meaningful contributions wherever life takes her. Supporting her would not just benefit her future but also the many lives she will continue to touch and inspire. I am confident that she will carry the values of leadership, service, and resilience throughout her journey, and I cannot think of a more deserving candidate.
