Recommendation

PCAFPD scholars are chosen on the basis of their financial need, academic performance, and commitment to community service and leadership. As the applicant's reference, please describe the applicant's demonstrated leadership skills, accomplishments, and impacts on your community and any other relevant information you feel the committee should know about the applicant.

Ms. Aliah Jazhel Oligario was one of my top students in English 10. To the best of my knowledge, like many of us who graduated from Angono National High School, she does not come from an affluent background. Nevertheless, I firmly believe she is highly deserving of the scholarship you are offering.

Regarding her leadership skills, I have personally witnessed—even within the humble setting of my classroom—how dedicated she is to every task entrusted to her. Along with other leaders in class, she motivates, directs and inspires her classmates. Never have I seen her mistreat a classmate or show rudeness toward any of her teachers.

There are many instances when I see her academic excellence in my subject. One notable instance was during our 2nd Quarter Public Speaking class, where she delivered a speech on the topic of Favoritism. She was among the few who achieved an almost perfect score. Her video presentation is now being used as a model for current Grade 10 students because it demonstrates all the essential principles and techniques of effective public speaking. What stood out to me most was not only her skill but also the bravery and values she conveyed. In that speech, she clearly expressed her firm commitment to justice and impartiality of one teacher that she had. Imagine a future leader who upholds cherished ideals such as fairness and integrity—that is the potential I see in Ms. Oligario. Another instance was in our cursive writing practices. At a time when many students are no longer well-versed or trained in cursive writing, Ms. Oligario's work consistently stood out.

Ms. Oligario graduated with honors in high school, and I am confident that she carries with her the strong work ethic and discipline that honor students are known for. I often witnessed how her classmates admired her whenever she shared well-thought-out ideas during class discussions, and I personally felt proud whenever she contributed insights that reflected depth and maturity. Her example as an outstanding student has also inspired younger learners, particularly those in Grade 9, to strive harder. In our community, honor students are highly regarded because they devote themselves to honing their skills and pursuing excellence, with the hope that one day they can serve and give back to the community. I consider Ms. Oligario one of my students with strong critical thinking skills. I have high hopes that students like her will one day contribute to improving our society.

Supporting her through your scholarship would truly be a worthy investment. Thank you in advance, and I pray that blessings continue to be upon you and your organization.
