Recommendation

PCAFPD scholars are chosen based on their financial need, academic performance, and commitment to community service and leadership. As the applicant's reference, please describe the applicant's demonstrated leadership skills, accomplishments, and impacts on your community, and any other relevant information you feel the committee should know about the applicant.

I strongly recommend Asheville, known as Ashe, for this scholarship. She is an exceptional and dedicated student whose impact during her time as Editor-in-Chief of Squire Publication last school year, 2024–2025, was transformative. Beyond simply managing the school publication, her vision and guidance led the team to major achievements, including wins at the Division, Regional, and National Schools Press Conferences in the School Paper category. These accomplishments stand as clear testaments to her extraordinary leadership, collaborative spirit, and unwavering commitment to excellence.

Beyond her editorial success, Ashe is a consistently high-performing student, earning honors throughout her academic journey and previously holding a scholarship during her senior high school years, where she also served as an officer in the Scholars' Society. Her generosity matches her dedication to learning, as she actively helps others grow and ensures her fellow members and peers feel supported and capable. Outside the classroom and the publication room, she shines with a deep passion for dancing, reflecting her creativity, discipline, and expressive spirit.

Ashe is not only deserving of this scholarship; she is the kind of scholar who will carry its name with pride, purpose, and excellence.
