Recommendation

PCAFPD scholars are chosen on the basis of their financial need, academic performance, and commitment to community service and leadership. As the applicant's reference, please describe the applicant's demonstrated leadership skills, accomplishments, and impacts on your community and any other relevant information you feel the committee should know about the applicant.

I had the privilege of teaching Jannah for four semesters, during which I witnessed her consistently exhibiting impressive leadership skills, academic excellence, and a strong sense of responsibility. One of the best instances where she showcased commendable leadership skills was during my research classes, both qualitative and quantitative research.

Almost everyone is aware that research is a complex and demanding task that requires not only academic competence but also effective leadership to ensure collaboration and success. Jannah excelled in this regard. She guided her group with clarity of vision, open-mindedness, and respect for diverse perspectives. She was able to harmonize diverse opinions and ideas and inspire her groupmates to contribute with their best efforts, which resulted in high-quality research outputs.

Beyond Jannah's academic accomplishments, her leadership reflects a genuine commitment to service and collaboration. She not only leads by authority but by example – she is an empathetic leader who values inclusivity that fosters an environment where everyone is valued. I firmly believe that these qualities are of utmost importance for a true leader.

Thus, Jannah's strong leadership skills, excellent academic performance, and genuine dedication to serving others make her highly and truly deserving of the PCAFPD scholarship. She has the potential not only to succeed in her own academic and professional pursuits but also to make meaningful and science-based contributions to her community and beyond.
