Recommendation

Being the Supreme Secondary Learner Government (SSLG) Internal Affairs and Welfare Committees during his Grade 10 and 11 respectively. I can say that the applicant has demonstrated a strict adherence to policy, transparency, and order. They possess the ability to manage internal conflicts, maintain accountability among student leaders, and ensure that the organization functions smoothly behind the scenes. Through the Welfare Committee, the applicant has proven to be a compassionate, student-centric leader. They listen actively to the grievances, needs, and health/wellness concerns of the student body, translating student feedback into actionable relief or programs. Furthermore, Mr Abion possesses the emotional maturity required to handle stressful school environments, managing heavy responsibilities with resilience, clarity, and patience.

During their tenure in these specific committees, the applicant contributed to reviewing and refining internal council guidelines, which noticeably improved communication efficiency between different SSLG committees and grade-level representatives.

Their integrity and dedication within Internal Affairs have elevated the credibility of the SSLG. Students and faculty alike trust the council more because of the applicant's commitment to transparency and ethical service.
