Recommendation

I am pleased to recommend Phirvin A. Ompad for the PCAFPD Scholarship. Phirvin is a dedicated student who is willing to learn and improve. He takes his studies seriously and has been an honor student since elementary school, which reflects his dedication to his studies over the years. He does not consider this as something that makes him better than others, but rather as a reason to continue doing his best and strive to grow.

Phirvin has also participated in community activities that allowed him to give back to his community. These activities include coastal cleanups and mangrove planting. Through these activities, he was able to contribute in simple ways to his community and environment. His participation shows that he is willing to give his time and effort whenever opportunities to help are available.

Through these community activities, Phirvin experienced leading and helping others with their work. He was assigned as the vice president of the student organization that organized the event, which helped develop his interest in becoming a leader. He later encouraged himself to run for an SSLG officer position. Although he was not elected as an SSLG officer, the experience allowed him to gain valuable skills and learn from the experience.

One quality I appreciate about Phirvin is his willingness to learn when faced with difficulties. When he encounters something unfamiliar, he is willing to ask for guidance and listen to the advice of teachers, classmates, and others. He understands that learning involves making mistakes, asking questions, and continuously improving.

Overall, Phirvin is still a student who is learning and developing. However, he has shown a sincere interest in his education, community service, and personal growth. I believe that the PCAFPD Scholarship would be a meaningful opportunity for him to continue his studies and work toward his future goals.

I respectfully recommend Phirvin A. Ompad for consideration for the PCAFPD Scholarship.
