Recommendation

Dear PCAFPD Scholarship Committee:

It is with great honor and confidence that I recommend Ms. Julie Abegail G. Delen for the PCAFPD Scholarship.

Having devoted many years to public service and community development, I have come to deeply value individuals who demonstrate genuine compassion, responsibility, and a sincere commitment to serving others. In this regard, Ms. Delen has distinguished herself through her active involvement in community and volunteer activities, particularly those that benefit children, Indigenous Peoples, and other vulnerable sectors of our community.

Throughout my years in public service, I have witnessed many young people participate in community activities, but what stands out about Ms. Delen is the sincerity and initiative she brings to her service. She does not simply volunteer her time; she makes an effort to understand the needs of the people she serves and looks for meaningful ways to contribute. She is dependable, cooperative, and willing to share her ideas and abilities for the benefit of others.

Her willingness to listen, learn, and work alongside members of the community reflects a level of maturity and social responsibility that is commendable. These qualities are especially important in community service, where genuine concern for people and a willingness to take action are essential.

I have also observed the strong values that Ms. Delen and her siblings have demonstrated through their upbringing. Their family has instilled in them the importance of education, responsibility, compassion, and giving back to the community. Ms. Delen has carried these values with her and demonstrated them through her continued willingness to extend her time, skills, and effort to people who need support.

After many years in public service, I firmly believe that the development of our communities depends not only on government programs and institutions, but also on young people who are willing to serve, learn, and take responsibility for the welfare of others. Ms. Delen exemplifies these qualities. Her commitment to community service, combined with her dedication to her education and personal growth, makes her a deserving candidate for the PCAFPD Scholarship.

I am confident that the opportunities and support provided by this scholarship will further develop Ms. Delen's abilities and strengthen her capacity to contribute meaningfully to her community and to society in the years ahead.

It is therefore my privilege to wholeheartedly recommend Ms. Julie Abegail G. Delen for the PCAFPD Scholarship. I respectfully ask that her application be given favorable consideration. I am confident that she will continue to uphold the values of service, compassion, responsibility, and excellence that are essential to building stronger communities.

Sincerely,

GERMAN S. ACOSTA
