Recommendation

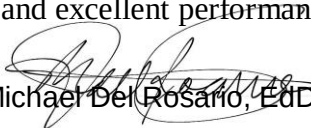

PCAFPD scholars are chosen on the basis of their financial need, academic performance, and commitment to community service and leadership. As the applicant's reference, please describe the applicant's demonstrated leadership skills, accomplishments, and impacts on your community and any other relevant information you feel the committee should know about the applicant.

I am pleased to recommend Charice Navidad, whom I have had the privilege of teaching since last year in Komunikasyon at Pananaliksik sa Wika at Kulturang Pilipino and Pagbasa at Pagsusuri ng Iba't Ibang Teksto Tungo sa Pananaliksik.

Charice is an active, responsible, and academically accomplished student who consistently demonstrates leadership, excellent communication skills, and a positive attitude toward her peers. She has impressed me not only through her academic performance but also through her ability to work effectively with others. In various class activities and group outputs, she naturally takes initiative, helps organize her classmates, and contributes meaningfully to the completion of their tasks. At the same time, she remains humble, respectful, and considerate, making her a good team player both as a leader and as a member of a group.

One of the qualities I particularly admire in Charice is her ability to communicate effectively and connect with people. As I often remind my students, being a good communicator is not simply about being proficient in a particular language; it is also about knowing how to use communication to understand, influence, and build meaningful connections with others. Charice exemplifies this quality. Her confidence, interpersonal skills, and ability to work with different people have made her a positive influence and role model to her classmates.

Her academic performance is likewise commendable. Because of her exceptional performance and demonstrated mastery of the competencies in my subject, I gave her a grade of 100 during one grading period. This was not merely a reflection of her academic ability but also of her consistency, dedication, participation, and excellent performance in various learning tasks.

Beyond the classroom, Charice has demonstrated exemplary skills in broadcasting and student journalism. She represented our school in broadcasting competitions and was given the opportunity to represent the Division of Imus at the Regional Schools Press Conference (RSPC), where she achieved 3rd Place in TV Broadcasting. This accomplishment reflects her discipline, confidence, communication skills, creativity, and ability to perform under pressure.

Because of her outstanding skills, leadership qualities, work ethic, and positive character, Charice has also been given the opportunity to take on greater responsibility in our school publication, including the opportunity to serve as an Editor-in-Chief. I believe that this opportunity is a testament to the trust that her teachers and school community place in her abilities and character.

Overall, Charice is a well-rounded student who combines academic excellence with leadership, communication skills, humility, and genuine concern for others. She has demonstrated that she can lead without losing the ability to listen, cooperate, and learn from others. I am confident that she will continue to use her talents and experiences to make a meaningful contribution to whatever academic, leadership, or community endeavor she becomes part of. I am therefore pleased to offer my strong recommendation for her application.
