Recommendation:

To whom it may concern,

I am pleased to recommend Jessa Mae P. Casilagan for the Peace Corps Alumni Foundation for Philippine Development (PCAFPD) Scholarship. As a religious leader of GKK. Sr. Sto. Niño Zone 1, Catholic Church, I have had the opportunity to work closely with Jessa Mae through our church's youth ministry and to witness her growth as a young leader and her commitment to serving others.

Jessa Mae has demonstrated genuine leadership through her active involvement in guiding and strengthening the faith of the young people in our community. As the current Catholic Youth Minist president of our chapter , she does not simply organize activities; she makes an effort to understand and support the young people she leads. She takes time to listen to their concerns and personal problems and provides guidance and encouragement when they need someone to turn to. Her ability to listen with patience and compassion has helped create a more supportive environment for our youth.

She has also been actively involved in organizing and carrying out various church and community activities, including fiestas, Flores de Mayo, youth camps, youth nights, and clean-up drives. Through these activities, she has encouraged young people to participate, work together, and become more involved in serving our community. Her leadership extends beyond spiritual activities, as she also takes part in environmental initiatives such as tree planting and other activities that promote care for our environment. These efforts are consistent with the values of service and stewardship that we hope to instill in our youth, and they have also been recognized and encouraged by our parish priest.

What I appreciate most about Jessa Mae is that she leads through service and genuine concern for others. She understands that being a youth leader is not only about holding a position but also about being present for the people she serves. Whether she is helping organize a church activity, encouraging young people to participate, listening to their concerns, or joining community and environmental activities, she consistently shows initiative and responsibility.

Through her involvement, Jessa Mae has contributed to strengthening the participation and fellowship of the youth in our church. She has helped create opportunities where young people can grow in their faith, develop relationships with one another, and understand the importance of serving both the Church and the wider community. Her leadership has made her a dependable person whom young people can approach and work with.

I believe that Jessa Mae embodies the qualities that the PCAFPD Scholarship seeks to support: leadership, service, compassion, responsibility, and a commitment to making a positive difference in her community. I am confident that the opportunities provided by this scholarship will further strengthen her ability to pursue her education and continue serving others.

For these reasons, I strongly recommend Jessa Mae P. Casilagan for the PCAFPD Scholarship. I believe she is deserving of your consideration and that she will continue to use her abilities and opportunities not only for her own growth but also for the benefit of the people and community she serves.
