I am writing to highly recommend Jesmy Zchyla Llaideres for the Peace Corps Alumni Foundation for Philippine Development (PCAFPD) Scholarship. Having observed her academic journey and personal growth, I can confidently attest to her strong character, academic diligence, and natural leadership abilities.

Ms. Llauderes is an outstanding student who balances intellectual sharpness with a profound empathy for others. What truly sets her apart is her inclusive leadership style. During collaborative tasks and group activities, she naturally steps up to guide her peers, ensuring that goals are met efficiently. More importantly, she is an incredibly supportive team player and follower when the situation calls for it.

Her commitment to community and inclusivity is best demonstrated by her refusal to let anyone feel isolated. Ms. Llauderes actively ensures that no student is left behind or left to struggle alone during challenging projects. She creates a welcoming environment for her peers, lifting up those who need extra help. This rare combination of academic capability and a genuine heart for people makes her an invaluable asset to our community.

I have no doubt that Ms. Llauderes will use her education to uplift others and contribute significantly to national development. She perfectly embodies the leadership, financial need, and community-first mindset that the PCAFPD looks for in its scholars. I give her my highest and most unreserved recommendation.
